Featured Consignors

Yasmin Brown

Yasmin works with dichroic glass to create jewelry and decorative house wares. Dichroic glass is produced when thin layers of metallic oxides are deposited on the surface of glass causing some wavelengths of light to pass thru the glass while others are reflected back. Each piece is made by cutting & layering glass to a desired design & kiln-firing. Variations in firing time & temperature cause the pieces to be one-of-a-kind. Yasmin hopes that the owner of her art gets as much joy from it as she received during its creation. May they make your spirit dance!
